RESIDENTS OF FLATS BLOCK DASH TO SAVE BELONGINGS FROM FLOOD

Burst pipe leaves homes inundated

William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

PEOPLE living in Waterhouse Moor tower were left trying to salvage their belongings after a pipe burst in the block of flats.

The leak started in a one-bedroom property on the third floor, sending a flood of water down the lift shaft and stairs of the building.

The leak started in Neil Scott's property, his sister Remi Scott, 46, who came to help her brother, explained.

Pouring

"It started yesterday evening around 5pm when my brother knocked the stopcock and water started pouring out," she said.

"He tried to hold a cloth over it but he was not able to because the pressure was so intense.

"Water was going everywhere and the place was flooded within minutes.

"Water poured out of the flat and into the lift shaft. [Neil] was not sure who to call so he called the fire brigade, and they were brilliant as they contacted the council, the water board and the Red Cross who provided support. We had to take out the carpet and we threw it out from the window. We may have to replace the furniture.

Student aiming to hit £3k target for Peru charity trek

Lewis has until August to reach fundraising goal

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A STUDENT who hopes to take part in a charity trek to the ancient mountain citadel of Machu Picchu is appealing for more help to meet his fundraising target.

Nineteen-year-old Lewis Townsend, of Sycamore Field, Harlow, is taking on the challenge in aid of the international charity Action Against Hunger. But before he can get a place on the plane he must raise £3,000. So far his total stands at £1,000.

"It would be absolutely fantastic to reach my target," said Lewis, who is studying at the University of Nottingham. "The challenge is extremely tough but I want to make a difference in any way I can. To raise that amount would be massive."

"The target is £3,000 to confirm my place and I am at £1,000 so far. I have done a few street fundraisers but they have been difficult and my best way of getting funds has been through charity quiz nights. I will do a few more of them."

If Lewis succeeds in hitting his target before the deadline day of August 18 he will fly to Peru, beginning the trek after an acclimatisation day in capital Lima.

He will be part of a group of around 20 people who will walk for eight hours a day to reach the summit of the UNESCO World Heritage Site high up in the Andes mountains 11 days later.

Throughout the time they will sleep in tents, battling freezing temperatures of minus 10 degrees at night. But it is not the cold that worries Lewis the most.

"The hardest aspect will be the endurance as the high altitude will make it difficult to breathe," he said. "It is definitely high up and at an altitude of more than three thousand metres the temperatures can really plummet at night, even if it is hot during the day."

"I have done a few events in the past to help charities out. I saw this and thought it would be a good opportunity to challenge myself and help a great charity."

Lewis, who is studying finance and mathematics at Nottingham, signed up for the challenge shortly after starting university in September.

"Action Against Hunger is a great international charity that specialises in helping stop malnutrition in children," he said.

He added: "The trek was organised by a group called Choose a Challenge and I'm not actually sure who I'm going to be going with yet. I only know one person in the group."

Ambulance calls up by 25 per cent

THE ambulance service covering Essex dealt with an extra 18,000 calls last month compared to March of last year.

The figures released by the East of England Ambulance Service, which also covers Bedfordshire, Hertfordshire, Norfolk, Suffolk and Cambridgeshire, show demand for the service in Essex increased by almost 25 per cent.

Across the whole region it handled a total of 98,000 in March, with the most common calls being for falls, breathing difficulties and chest pain.

Rob Ashford, acting director of service delivery, said: "We continue to face unprecedented demand on our service which places pressure on everyone in the trust who are working hard to provide the best possible service to patients."

"We have increased the number of clinicians in our control rooms to give medical advice and ensure that we are sending ambulance staff to life-threatening and serious medical emergencies."

Water company's community cash

COMMUNITY groups and charities in Harlow are being invited to bid for a share of a cash windfall.

Water supply company Affinity Water has launched a community engagement programme offering money and expert help to groups and charities which can request funding of up to £2,500 and the use of company resources for projects and initiatives.

Applications are open to organisations within the Affinity Water supply area and will be reviewed by a panel of people from across the business.

Chief executive officer Simon Cocks said: "We want as many organisations as possible to have the chance to benefit from this programme and we encourage them to visit our website to apply for support."

The closing date for applications May 31. For more information visit www.affinitywater.co.uk/communityengagement.

OUT OF ORDER: The sealed off lifts in Waterhouse Moor tower

Burst water pipe floods Bush Fair tower block

Harlow Council has been round and we have contacted the insurers. He is distraught. They [Red Cross] arranged for some residents to spend the night in a hotel."

Firefighters were called to the 12-floor block of flats near Bush Fair shortly after 5pm on Tuesday. Crews assisted residents and used an aqua vac to pump water from the affected properties.

Housing block managers United Living and UK Power Networks also attended.

The Red Cross fire support vehicle attended to provide residents with immediate welfare support. The fire service left the scene at about 7pm.

Electricity to the block remained switched off throughout Wednesday.

Waterhouse Moor tower block resident Kamie Bradley, 28, said: "Water was dripping down the walls and we were without electricity all night."

A 50 year-old female resident, who asked not to be named, said: "It was literally flowing and it was gushing down the stairs like a waterfall. That is why they have had to stop the lifts."

A spokesman for Harlow Council said: "The council and Kier Harlow staff have been on site this morning to assess the damage and to support those affected."

"The flooding was due to a failed stopcock in a privately-owned leasehold flat. The flooding affected nine residents who were moved temporarily into hotel accommodation last night."

"All electrics and water to the block have been reinstated and there are some repairs to the block which will be carried out by Kier Harlow."

78-year-old fails in appeal to overturn penalty £60 parking fine for elderly driver confusing 1 and 7

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

AN ELDERLY woman who mistook the figure seven for a one when she paid to park her car in Harlow town centre has been told she must pay a £60 penalty.

Mary Farrell, 78, of Threshers Bush, Harlow, returned to her vehicle in The Water Gardens to discover she had been fined as she had bought a ticket for the wrong bay.

The car park operates a system in which drivers park their vehicles in numbered spaces and then pay at a machine by entering the number of the bay.

Failed

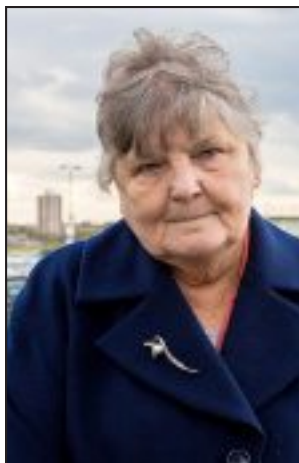

Despite pleas to car park operators Smart Parking and the independent appeals service POPLA, Mrs Farrell failed to have the penalty quashed.

"I think it is really silly of them," she said this week. "I was parked in 251 but I bought a ticket for 257. When I appealed and posted them the receipt they would not back down and I have to pay a fine that is now £60."

"I park there every Thursday when I go to play bingo. This was just a simple mistake."

Mrs Farrell has lived alone since the death of her husband Eddie eight years ago and regularly visits the town centre for shopping and socialising.

The parking charge notice she discovered slapped to her window of her

ANGRY: Mary Farrell

Mercedes A Class informed her the fine would be £60 or £30 if paid within 14 days.

Her son-in-law, Keith Alder-Barber, wrote a letter to Smart Parking outlining the circumstances of the case but was told all procedures had been followed and suggested an appeal to POPLA.

By the time POPLA replied to say the appeal was unsuccessful the 14-day period had expired.

Mrs Farrell said: "I was told afterwards that if I had gone downstairs [to The Water Gardens management suite] there was someone who could have helped but at the time I did not know about that."

"I panicked when I saw the sticker and I was thinking 'Oh my God, what have I done?' I park here every week and normally it is £3 or £4 which is no problem. I think it is really silly and I hope to get it resolved."

The Star contacted Smart Parking but had received no response at the time of going to press.

Machine

Mr Alder-Barber, 54, also of Threshers Bush, added: "Using a machine to make a payment is not an easy task for an elderly person. She selected the number she thought was relevant but to an elderly person the figure one is very similar to seven. I decided to write a letter on her behalf to Smart Parking to appeal to their better nature as this was a genuine error. They wrote back saying that all procedures had been followed when issuing their penalty charge notice. They didn't take into consideration any of the factors that led to my mother-in-law making an error."

Mr Alder-Barber added that the family had now paid the fine but said the real issue was the principal rather than the amount.

Share ownership breaks no rules says Halfon

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon insisted he has broken no rules after a national newspaper reported he held "substantial" assets in an offshore company.

Mr Halfon, who is deputy chairman of the Conservative Party, was one of 12 senior Tories who The Sun claimed had money held in "blind trusts" which it said were used to stop ministers being able to use their position in government to influence their own investments,

According to the report in Friday's paper, Mr Halfon owns shares in Jardine Matheson, a company based in Bermuda with headquarters in Hong Kong.

The revelation came during the Panama Papers scandal which resulted in Prime Minister David Cameron, Chancellor of the Exchequer George Osborne and Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn publishing their tax returns.

This week Mr Halfon said: "The Jardine Matheson shares were given to me some time ago by family and they are on the Ministers List of Interests."

"They do not appear on the MPs Register of Interests because their value falls below the required threshold."

"All my financial interests are, and always have been, fully and properly declared. Jardine Matheson is an international company and not a trust."

Foul play over dog mess bins

SIR, I think everyone will agree with me that Harlow is littered with dog faeces.

It's all well and good saying that it's an environmental crime not to pick up your dog's mess and that a fixed penalty notice will be issued but how can they expect owners to keep their side of the bargain if there aren't enough bins or that the bins that are provided are full and overflowing?

I believe Harlow Council said that if the bins are full then people should take the mess home with them. Dogs can foul roughly three times a day and our non-recycling bins are emptied once every two weeks, so how much is going to end up in the black bins?

All the complaints about people not clearing up after the dogs will be replaced by the smell coming from the black bins. More bins and more frequent emptying of those that are already provided would be a simple step in the right direction.

EU booklet is not balanced

SIR, I am absolutely incensed that David Cameron feels it is OK to spend £9.3m of taxpayers' money on what I believe is nothing more than a propaganda booklet to remain in the European Union.

Yes I am for Brexit; there are so many reasons I want the UK to leave. This country of ours has got good business leaders that could sell our products all over the world, control our own borders, have more money to spend on our hospitals, farming subsidies and the health industry.

I'm fed up to the back teeth having to go cap in hand to the EU and beg them for concessions on what we can and cannot do to run this country.

But just imagine for a second that David Cameron supported Brexit. Would he not also have funded a booklet giving all the reasons why we should leave, spending the same amount of taxpayers' money on that booklet which would incense those who want to remain?

READER'S PHOTO

■ Harlow Town Park was the location for this photograph taken by John Curry, of Old Orchard. "The sculpture Pisces shines through the new growth on the weeping willow in the newly refurbished water gardens," he writes.

■ If you have a photo you have taken in or around Harlow which you would like to see featured in the Star, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a brief description of where and when it was taken, to star@hertssexnews.co.uk. Please remember to include your name and address.

Both sides of this debate should feel incensed at what he has done with taxpayers' money. It's not right.

This booklet does not give a balanced view of the pros and cons of Remain or Brexit; it is just Mr Cameron's personal wish list. He has taken his stance in relation to this most important debate. He wants us to stay so common sense tells me he will only give his side.

Brexit is not to be feared

SIR, Stan Newens says leaving the EU is senseless (Star Letters, March 31). I assume this is the same Mr Newens who was an MEP for 15 years so perhaps he is not an impartial observer.

However, he is wrong to claim the EU is responsible for keeping peace in Europe. At the end of the Second World War the perception was that any threat to peace in Europe would come from Russia which had already annexed the eastern half of the continent.

To safeguard the West, the North Atlantic Treaty organisation (NATO) was formed in 1949. Buttressed by a substantial US and British military presence in Germany and elsewhere in Europe throughout the Cold War years, it ensured peace for western Europe although the eastern part was not so lucky.

The bloody conflicts in some of the countries of the former Yugoslavia should not be forgotten and we should be proud of the UK's peacekeeping role undertaken under the banners of NATO and the UN during that time.

The first elections to the European parliament in 1979 were for 410 MEPs for the nine member countries, of which Britain had almost 20 per cent. It now consists of 751 MEPs for the 28 member states, of which we have less than 10 per cent.

The political union of Europe with a population of more than 500 million is not run by these few MEPs, it is still run by the unelected faceless ones.

The EU did not give us clean beaches; this was down to our investment in improved sewage treatment works. In the Employment Protection Act 1975, a Labour government introduced maternity leave amongst other employment reforms, all without EU assistance.

Brexit does not mean we will stand alone against the perils of the wider world; we will continue to co-operate with the international law enforcement and anti-terrorist organisations.

David Cameron has clearly shown the EU cannot be effectively changed from within.

It is now a vast, unwieldy organisation and by leaving we will be able to co-operate with it but have a government able to work in the best interests of our country, unshackled by the constraints imposed by EU rules and laws.

Leaving the EU is an opportunity and not something to be feared.

Hazards for road users

SIR, Over the past few years the amount of traffic in Howard Way has increased due to the retail parks and new stores like B&M and Home Bargains arriving.

Many a time I cannot get out of my road.

One day a serious accident will happen at the major roundabout by McDonalds. If you want to turn left or right you are totally blind to the traffic coming from the right.

The trees and vegetation are too high. In my opinion it should all be cut right down so traffic is visible.

I hope Harlow Council or Essex Highways act before an accident happens.

Also, may I point out that the mini roundabout prior to the large one has very serious potholes. I consider it very dangerous.

Barry Ford

Orange is now the new blue

SIR, Some years ago this paper published a letter of mine in which I asked the employer of the person who was use a blue marker to mark potholes along Southern Way, Howards Way and the stretch of the A14 from the Clock Tower up to the Southern Way intersection to identify themselves.

This time the colour being used to mark the potholes is orange, not that the colour coding is of interest.

However, I would like this person to come forward as I, along with the rest of Harlow, will assist them in pointing out the remaining 3,250 potholes around the town that they have missed so far.

Seek advice on benefits

SIR, The four-year freeze on working age benefits and tax credits, which started last week, will no doubt add to the pressures that millions of families already face in meeting everyday costs.

Whilst not a direct cut, the freeze essentially erodes the value of benefits and is set to affect a large number of claimants, many of whom are on the lowest incomes.

As a charity supporting people in financial hardship, we know that other significant benefit changes taking place this month and beyond are also likely to cause confusion and concern.

This includes a change in the tax credit 'income rise disregard' - the amount a claimant's income can increase in-year without seeing a reduction in tax credit entitlement. The disregard is being reduced from £5,000 to £2,500, the same level as when tax credits were first introduced. An estimated 800,000 people will see their tax credit entitlement reduced as a result.

April also brings changes to support for housing costs, a reduction in Universal Credit Work Allowances and the introduction of a new single tier state pension.

We urge anyone who is worried to visit Turn2us.org.uk where they can find further information on the changes and check their current benefits entitlements.

Anyone who thinks they might see a reduction in their income as a result of the changes can check if they're entitled to any extra help through our benefits calculator; and also use our grants search to see if they might be eligible for a charity grant or other support.

POLICE investigating the theft of tools from a van in Harlow have released this CCTV image of a man they want to question.

The theft happened between 1.20pm and 1.40pm on Tuesday, March 29.

Second phase launch at £200m tech campus

Kao Park in key location along new life sciences corridor

Ken Morley

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE creation of a new £200m science and technology campus in Harlow is entering its second phase with the launch this week of the next wave of office accommodation.

Kao Park is taking shape on a 35-acre site off London Road, a strategically important location along what has come to be known as the London-Stansted-Cambridge life sciences corridor.

When completed, it will comprise a total of 215,000 sq ft of office accommodation and a state-of-the-art campus data centre, which will be the largest of its kind in the UK when it comes on stream.

Defence innovation specialist Raytheon UK and global electronics supplier Arrow Electronics have already agreed 15-year leases to occupy Kao One, one of two buildings on the campus.

The second three-storey building – Kao Two – will comprise 81,536 sq ft of high quality office accommodation to be let on a floor-by-floor basis.

Like Kao One, it will incorporate a newly landscaped campus environment along with a 786-space multi-storey car park and cycle storage.

Until 2012, both buildings formed part of the European headquarters of multi-national telecommunications equipment manufacturer Nortel Networks.

The completion of work on Kao One is scheduled for the end of this year while the Kao Two office building and data centre modules will be ready next year.

Greenfield

Kao Park is the first part of the Harlow Enterprise Zone which will also include the construction of a new 25-acre science park on a greenfield site owned by Harlow Council and the re-development of the existing Templefields industrial estate off Edinburgh Way into a modern business park.

It is named in honour of Sir Charles Kao who, along with George Hockham, discovered the technology behind fibre optic cable while he was working for Standard Telephone Laboratories in Harlow 50 years ago.

In 2009 he was awarded the Nobel Prize for Physics in recognition of his achievements.

David Bloom, chief executive of Kao Park development consultants Goldacre Ventures, said: "Kao Two offers high quality office accommodation to occupiers looking for a strategic position close to London along the new life sciences corridor."

"We hope Kao Park will become a new centre for discovery and innovation that lives up to its legacy as the place where fibre optic cable was discovered 50 years ago."

Harlow Enterprise Zone is one of 24 which have been created by the Government to stimulate business growth through offering tax and planning incentives as well as funding infrastructure development.

The Harlow zone focuses on the ICT, life sciences and advanced manufacturing sectors and has been identified as a key location for growth at the centre of the London-Stansted-Cambridge corridor.

Anger at proposal to seek feedback from 'detained by force' suspects

A SUGGESTION that police should seek feedback from suspects who have had force used against them have been branded "outrageous" by the head of the Essex Police Federation.

The Independent Police Complaints Commission says all police forces should give people arrested by force the opportunity to "give feedback about their experience".

But federation chairman Mark Smith warned such a move could open the floodgates for complaints which had no basis.

"It's absolutely outrageous," he said. "Whether it be on the high street or the riots in London and people are arrested or attacking police officers, quite often what starts off as a fight between groups of individuals turns on the police when they turn up."

"Now, if you're attacking police officers and being arrested, why should we be asking you if we used the right force against you because of course they're going to say 'no'."

"We already see on the street, when you make an arrest, the first line of defence from the person that's been arrested is that they are going to make a complaint against the police. They hope that it will make the police step back and maybe not investigate quite as well."

He added: "There's already a lack of respect to police officers. We're seeing violent crime on the up and I think this is just opening the floodgates for complaints which have no basis."

The proposal is part of the 96-page IPCC Police Use of Force report. One recommendation states: "We recommend that all people who have had force used against them give feedback about their experience, including information about making a complaint."

"Complaints are a valuable source of information that can help to improve police practice."

Cutting carbon

HARLOW Council has drawn up a five-year blueprint to cut its carbon footprint by 25 per cent.

Council leader Jon Clempner said the plan, which was approved at a meeting of the cabinet, will build upon the measures it has already undertaken to reduce carbon emissions.

The council has installed voltage optimisation equipment in its buildings and LED lighting in car parks and some residential areas. It now plans to install more energy efficient boilers, extend voltage optimisation to venues including Harlow Playhouse and solar panels at the Civic Centre.

It is estimated this will reduce emissions over the five-year period by 198 tonnes of and result in a saving of £16,000 in the first year.

Assault and theft

THE occupant of a house in Fold Croft, Harlow, was pushed to the floor by two men who forced their way in to the property.

The pair, who had a large dog with them, stole cash and electrical items.

The men are both described as white, of large build and wore scarves across their faces. One spoke with a foreign accent and the other wore a hooded top.

The incident happened at 6.50pm last Thursday (April 7).

'I love St Clare, it is such a happy and peaceful place. It was a relief for us'

REMEMBERING: Above, Cara Sheridan and her family including her dad Eddie, who died at St Clare Hospice and, above right, Cara ahead of the Midnight Walk event in July CARA Sheridan will be stepping out in memory of her father Eddie when she takes on St Clare Hospice's Midnight Walk on the anniversary of his death.

"My dad was such a character and so full of life," said the 37-year-old, who is a partner at Harlow solicitors and walk sponsors Barnes & Partners.

"So when he was diagnosed with throat cancer in 2002 we knew our lives would never be the same again."

"As the eldest child it was my responsibility to take charge. But when the doctors sat us down and said that there was nothing else they could do I just felt we had reached desperation point. It was a relief when St Clare stepped in to help us."

Eddie Sheridan passed away at St Clare Hospice on July 3, 2005, aged 49.

Cara said: "I love St Clare. The thing that makes it so special is all the laughter – it is such a happy and peaceful place. You would think it would be sad – but it's not at all."

"The staff are absolutely second to none and it was a relief to know my dad was getting the best care. "It was thanks to the help of St Clare that dad was able to have more time with us and I am so grateful for those happy memories."

Cara will take part in the Midnight Walk on the night of her father's anniversary which is very poignant.

"I'm taking part in the Midnight Walk this year, which will be from the evening of the 2 July, into the morning of the 3 July, my dad's anniversary, so it will be extra special for me," she said.

"I am so proud to be a part of this event. St Clare's helped my dad tremendously and I want to be able to give something back. I hope hundreds of others join me in remembering their loved ones while raising money for this worthy cause."

■ Tickets for the Midnight Walk, which was launched in March, are priced at £20 for a standard adult ticket (16 years and above) and £10 for children (11-15 years).

To register, visit <http://stclarehospice.org.uk/event/midnight-walk-2016> or call Jade Clarke on (01279) 773756.

Mehmet to take across Europe

Cafe Pizzeria owner decided to take on

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A FATHER-of-four will be donning his cycle helmet and setting off on a mammoth mission across Europe.

Mehmet Cakmak, who is the owner of Café Pizzeria in Bush Fair, will pedal 3,000 miles to help raise £5,000 for Hastingwood-based St Clare Hospice.

"I have always been a keen cyclist but I just couldn't find the time once my wife and I had our four children and I was running my business," said Mehmet, who has lived in Ilford for 30 years.

Adventure

"But when I reached the big five-zero I just thought, it's now or never. I need an adventure."

Mehmet has been running his Harlow business for more than 25 years.

After celebrating his 50th last November, Mehmet decided he wanted to take on a personal challenge and give something back to his local community.

Mehmet said: "I have driven past St Clare's twice a day, every day, for the past 25 years on my way to work in Harlow."

"I know from my many customers at the cafe about the amazing work St Clare does and I just wanted to give something back to the community I have worked in for so many years.

"St Clare has been there for so many thousands of people over the years and I want to do my bit to make sure they can continue to care for local families in future."

Mehmet has received lots of support from the community

Theatre school students' cabaret show

STUDENTS of a performing arts school with branches in Epping and Chelmsford will be performing in a show this weekend to raise money for St Clare Hospice.

Academy Arts Theatre School will be staging Love and Life on Sunday. The show features students aged from 7-21 dancing to the music of chart artists and extracts from Broadway shows.

They will be joined by guest performers from the West End and television including EastEnders' actor Danny-Boy Hatchard.

The show is being staged in memory of former Casualty actress Rebekha Gibbs and Darren Brown, who died from a rare form of blood cancer at the age of 40 in June last year. He spent four days at St Clare.

His stepdaughter Chloe, 18, of Bushey Croft, Harlow, is a student at the school. She said: "We have put together a cabaret performance to raise money for St Clare Hospice to say thank you for the care Darren, and we as a family, received there during such an awful time."

There will be two performances at the Civic Theatre in Chelmsford – at 3.45pm and 7.45pm – and tickets cost £15 (£12 concessions). Contact the box office on (01245) 606505 for more details.

Mum's buggy walk in aid of baby care unit

A MOTHER whose baby daughter spent the first few weeks of her life in Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital after being born prematurely is holding a buggy walk to raise funds for the neo-natal intensive care unit.

Lauren Alston, who gave birth to Isobelle Rose last year at 33 weeks, said she was organising the walk to highlight the "incredible work" of the unit.

So far 150 people have registered to take part and more than £3,400 has been raised, with more coming in.

"It's amazing," said Lauren. "Local businesses have been very generous by donating raffle prizes, printing leaflets and posters and creating banners to support this event. I'm overwhelmed by the response it's received."

The five-mile walk takes place on Sunday, April 24 at 10.30am, starting and finishing at the Lee Valley White Water Centre in Waltham Cross. To make a donation visit sponsorship.www.justgiving.com/teams/NICU-Buggy-Walk.

TOWN PARK TRAGEDY: Hundreds at vigil for seven-year-old victim of Easter fair accident

Light in the darkness as town mourns little Summer

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of people joined a candlelight vigil at the entrance to Harlow Town Park which has become a shrine to the seven-year-old girl killed in a fun fair accident over Easter weekend.

It was a chance for the community to share its grief with family and friends of Summer Grant, who died from her injuries when a bouncy castle she was playing on was blown hundreds of yards by a strong gust of wind.

The vigil took place at the entrance to park where a wall of flowers and cuddly toys have been left by wellwishers in the days following the accident which shocked the town.

Summer's uncle, Shawn Grant, 26, of Foldcroft, Harlow Croft, said: "It is great to see so many people here tonight.

"It really has brought the whole town together. We just thank everyone for their support, the messages, the donations, the teddy bears . . . just everything really. Thank you so much."

During the vigil some of Summer's favourite music was played as candles were placed in the shape of a heart. Then, at 9pm, a two-minute silence was held.

Family friend John Stratford, 66, who lives in Potter Street, said: "It's good that so many people have come and it's nice to see all the candles. It is just all so sad."

John Andrews, 49, of Collins Meadow, said: "I did not know the girl but it was a big shock to me when I heard the news as I have children. I think when you're a parent these things really get to you. I have come here tonight to pay my respects."

The vigil was organised on Facebook by Danielle Prior, who said: "Many more people came than I expected and it was a great turnout. We had probably 500 or 600 people turn up tonight."

"I have liaised with the family the

FLORAL TRIBUTES: The wall of bouquets and soft toys that have been placed at the entrance to Harlow Town Park whole way through. It is for them. I didn't know Summer but I do know her dad and her uncle. I thought it would be nice to have everyone coming together to do one thing."

Among those at the vigil was Harlow MP Robert Halfon, who said afterwards: "In the past couple of weeks we have seen the worst of human tragedy, a sweet innocent child losing her life on Easter weekend of all weekends."

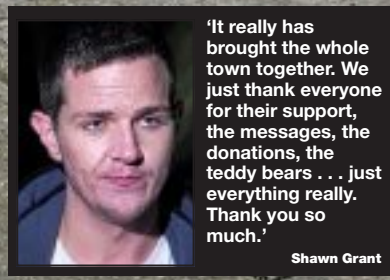

"Tonight we have seen the best of human kindness. People of Harlow have rallied together to hold this beautiful vigil and do everything they can to rally and support the family.

"I have written to the family and I have spoken to some of them tonight. My heart goes out to them."

"They will be suffering enormously but I hope they will be heartened by some of the things they have seen this evening which show we care and they will not be forgotten."

Police are currently investigating the circumstance surrounding the accident

Parish council bans bouncy castles until end of police probe

A PARISH council has temporarily banned bouncy castles while the investigation into the Harlow Town Park tragedy continues.

Members of North Weald Bassett Parish Council agreed to suspend its policy of allowing the inflatables at The Parish Hall in Thornwood Common until the results of the inquiry into the death of Summer Grant are known.

A meeting of parish councillors was told bouncy castles had been allowed at the hall about five times a year. The decision means there will be no bouncy castle at this year's Thornwood Village Day.

Suspend

The motion to suspend approval for bouncy castles was proposed by parish and district councillor Dave Stallan, who said: "I would like to put on hold our procedure until the results of the inquiry into what happened in Harlow in case any recommendations come out."

"I don't want us to agree to continue and then we have to bring the matter back because something comes out of the very thorough investigation into what happened."

Parish council clerk Sue DeLuca said: "I'm really uncomfortable with the use of bouncy castles at the moment."

Talks about The Square 'ongoing'

A WOMAN who launched a petition to protect The Square has asked Harlow Council what they have done to save the venue.

At a full council meeting last Thursday, Emma Batrick, of Tunmeade, asked if the former Fourth Avenue venue would be returning.

Councillor Tony Durcan, portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise, said in reply: "The leader of the council and I have met with The Square on several occasions and there is ongoing dialogue.

"Depending on the outcome of that dialogue I may make a formal recommendation to the cabinet on what, if any, financial support should be provided by the council."

Support group

MACMILLAN Cancer Support is appealing for Harlow residents to form a fundraising group.

Groups discuss the best ways to raise money and awareness for the charity in the area.

Anyone interested should email kcunnane@macmillan.org.uk for details about an introductory meeting on May 12.

Birthday beacon

THE Queen's 90th birthday will be celebrated in Epping by the lighting of a beacon at the Frampton Road recreation ground.

The event will take place next Thursday (April 21), starting at 7pm with the beacon lighting at 7.30pm.

Borneo trek raises £30k for PAH clinical trials unit

A TEAM of eight fundraisers returned from the intense heat of the jungles of Borneo covered in sweat but with £30,000 raised for local breast cancer clinical trials.

They hiked through the humid heat of the dense jungle and climbed to the summit of Mount Kinabalu spotting orang utans in aid of the trials unit at Princess Alexandra Hospital in Harlow and St Margaret's Hospital in Epping.

Former Savoy Hotel head chef Anton Edelmann, 63, thought the heat of the kitchen would prepare him for the humidity, but was surprised: "Kinabalu is a fantastic and beautiful mountain but the last 500m were so steep it nearly killed me. But the views made up for the agony."

Father-of-two Anton, who lives in Potters Bar with wife Sue, has been fundraising for the charity since 2012.

The other hikers included Epping optometrist Polly Dulley, 51, from Little Hallingbury, Simon Gibb, 53, from Studham, in Bedfordshire, and Sarah Kershaw, 45, the wife of 1980s pop star Nik, who has performed sell-out concerts for the charity, who lives in Felsted, Essex.

She joined friends Viv Edwards, 45, from Hertford, and Lisa Pearce, 43, of Westhill Road, Hoddesdon, who have taken on all kinds of feats for the charity including organising a golf day at Hertfordshire Golf and Country Club in Broxbourne for four years. This year's golf day is on Friday, May 20.

To find out more call the fundraising office on (01279) 827857 or email pahbreasttrials@outlook.com.

Surgery bid to offer seven day a week service

Longer opening hours planned for new centre

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Health Centres Trust is looking to extend the opening hours at the new Lister House Health Centre to make it a seven-day-a-week service.

Plans for a 20,000 patient surgery, pharmacy and community health clinic in Abercrombie Way to replace the Lister Medical Centre at Staple Tye (pictured right) were approved last year last year after lengthy discussions.

Now the trust hopes for permission to open the new centre seven days a week between 7am and 10pm including bank holidays to meet the needs of the growing community.

The plans will also ensure that the new medical centre will comply with the Government policy of providing a seven-day-a-week service across the country.

A joint letter from NHS England and West Essex Clinical Commissioning Group has been submitted to support the application. It reads: "In order to secure long term funding for the Lister House Health Centre development the conditions set out above must be met."

"Therefore planning approval is sought to allow the public seven day access to the health centre, between the hours of 7am and 10pm, to including public and bank holidays to enable NHS England and West Essex CCG flexibility to provide services to meet the requirements of a growing community with greater demands for primary health care services."

Some nearby residents have already lodged objections to plans amid concerns over noise from vehicles and fears of an increase in anti-social behaviour.

The application is subject to a public consultation before a decision is made. It can be viewed on Harlow Council's website at www.harlow.gov.uk.

Daredevil dad plans skydive for baby unit

Sam has raised more than £10,000 over past five years

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

A FUNDRAISING dad will be jumping out of a plane at 10,000ft to raise money for the hospital unit that treated his son.

Sam Snelling, of Doulton Close, Harlow, is hoping to raise £1,000 for the neonatal unit at Princess Alexandra Hospital.

The 33-year-old raised more than £10,000 for the baby care unit over the past five years before deciding to call time on his efforts. But now he has decided to continue to show his appreciation to PAH staff for the support they gave him and wife Nina during the birth of their first child, Ralph.

Ralph, who is now a healthy four nearly five-year-old, spent six days in the neonatal intensive care unit where he received round the clock care and underwent various treatments and procedures.

It was three days before Sam, and Nina, 33, were able to hold Ralph.

"It was terrifying to see our son so ill," said Sam, "but the nurses and doctors were brilliant and extremely reassuring the whole time.

INSPIRATION: Sam Snelling with his son Ralph, who was cared for in the NICU at Princess Alexandra Hospital when he was born

"I have no doubt that their quick response and amazing care saved Ralph's life."

Of his fundraising efforts he said: "It's become a kind of way of life. It is a great feeling to be able to give something back and know that I am helping other parents and babies who find themselves in the same situation that we did.

"I was going to stop but you can't quantify the impact of ongoing support. Everything needs funding, even the tea and coffee in the unit. That was so important when we were there – the home comforts."

He added: "Unfortunately, this care requires a large amount of time and equipment which is very expensive but vital in caring for many babies. Our mission is to raise as much as we can to help those families that find themselves in the same situation."

Over the years Sam has held quiz nights and cake sales, taken on various sporting events and shaved off his hair, but the skydive will be the hardest challenge to date.

"It's going to be really hard but it's for a great cause," joked Sam.

Arriva offers an improved service on its 510 route

PASSENGERS from Harlow who travel to Bishop's Stortford and Stansted Airport are among the winners of timetable changes by bus company Arriva.

The service between Harlow and Bishop's Stortford now runs every 10 minutes for the main part of the day from Monday to Saturday.

This will be provided by the 509 and 510 services and a new 508 service, all of which will run to and from Stansted Airport.

Replace

The new 508 will take the same route as the 509 and 510 between Harlow, Old Harlow and Bishop's Stortford and will then replace the current 308 service to Stansted via Dunmow Road and Takeley.

However, the changes mean that some roads in Harlow will no longer be served.

The services that connect the town centre to Church Langley (present number 6) and Old Harlow via Churchgate Street (number 7) will no longer run.

Other routes and timetables have also been revised.

Richard Lewis, marketing manager for Arriva, said: "It is vital to review services regularly to enable us to match demand as closely as possible.

Family's tribute to woman who died after M25 smash

THE family of a woman who died following a road traffic collision on the M25 near Harlow have described her as a popular and generous person.

Laura Cooper, 34, suffered fatal injuries in the accident between junctions 26 and 27 on the motorway on Tuesday, March 29.

She was a passenger in a car which was in collision with a heavy goods vehicle in the early hours of the morning.

Ms Cooper, from Leicestershire, died at the Royal London Hospital four days later.

Her sister, Jo-Anne Adamson, said this week: "Laura leaves behind a devastated 18-year-old son, her parents, siblings and a wealth of friends."

"She was a very popular and generous young woman with roots in both London and Leicester. She will leave a huge hole in the lives of her many loved ones."

"Laura and I were like chalk and cheese, but we shared fun family times and we turned to each other in times of family need."

Her family have set up a JustGiving page to raise money for the London Air Ambulance.

Jo-Anne added: "It is a sad time for us all and we would like to take this opportunity to thank the emergency services and the staff at The Royal London Hospital who tried their hardest to save Laura."

Police are asking witnesses, including any drivers who may have dashboard camera footage of the crash, to contact PC James Lee at the Serious Collision Investigation Unit on the non-emergency 101 number.

Fundraisers warming up for marathon challenge

With just 10 days to go, runners prepare for their feat of endurance

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

FUNDRAISERS are stepping up their training as they prepare to take part in the Virgin Money London Marathon later this month.

Four more Harlow residents have contacted the Star to rally support for their efforts in aid of charity.

Sean Williams, of Joyners Field, has set himself a target of raising £500 for the Williams Day Unit at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital.

The 41-year-old said: "The unit looked after my wife's stepfather when he was diagnosed with cancer. He went there for treatment and they were fantastic but sadly he passed away in 2013."

"I have not done any running for 25 years since I was at school. I was down to run last year but I damaged my achilles and had to pull out."

"Raising £500 would be great but doubling it would be brilliant. I have now got £390 and I might even review my target."

To sponsor Sean visit www.justgiving.com/sean-williams1974.

Nigel Taylor will achieve his ambition of taking part in the race with his son Sam now that he has reached the minimum entry age of 18.

The pair have raised slightly more than half of their £4,000 target for Leukaemia Care and have been out in all types of weather to get in shape for the race.

Nigel, 47, of Burley Hill, said: "I want to raise as much money as possible for the charity."

"This is my second marathon as I did one before in 2008. I am feeling fine for it, although training has been very hard in the cold weather. I am now feeling prepared and ready for the day."

To sponsor Nigel visit <http://mydonate.bt.com/fundraisers/nigtaylor2>.

Jamie Lowen, of Katharines, will be running in the marathon for the first time and he will start knowing he has already surpassed his £1,000 target for Save the Children.

"I work for GlaxoSmithKline and they have been linked with the charity," said the 42-year-old. "Whatever I raise will be doubled by the company so it is a good incentive for me."

"It is really tough running the long distances and actually quite boring, but people say it is a whole new ball game on the day and I hope the crowd can carry me around."

To support Jamie visit uk.virginmoneygiving.com/JamieLowen.

■ The Virgin Money London Marathon is on Sunday, April 24.

If you are taking part and raising money for charity, email your details to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk and we will include them in our post race round-up.

MP's advice to teens on youth club

Visit to citizenship class

William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

STUDENTS discussed the subjects of citizenship and the opportunities for young people with MP Robert Halfon when he visited one of Harlow's secondary schools.

Mr Halfon, who is more used to facing questions in Parliament, talked to pupils at Burnt Mill Academy in First Avenue.

Citizenship students in Years 9 to 11 also sought the advice of Mr Halfon in setting up their youth club Activiteens.

Year 11 student Jade Battell said afterwards: "It was interesting to be able to talk to Mr Halfon and he gave us advice on what we need to do to achieve the goals for our campaign."

Fun

The students are hoping to start the youth club to provide teenagers in Harlow with a safe environment to have fun and socialise with others of the same age.

Afterwards Mr Halfon tweeted: "Good visit to the citizenship class of Burnt Mill to meet with students and discuss youth facilities."

Michelle's books are a class act

A STUDENT at the Anglia Ruskin University's campus in Harlow is celebrating her achievement in having eight educational books published.

Michelle Dutton, who is on the BA Early Years course at the University Centre, Harlow, has written a series of short stories aimed at four-to-seven year-olds which are suitable for use in the classroom environment.

All of the stories have an educational message and tackle subjects such as child abuse and protection. They also contain a lesson plan and do not have an ending in order to encourage an open-ended discussion on the subjects covered.

Michelle now has ambitions to carry out the project further.

Messy play at open day

PARENTS of toddlers at a Harlow nursery will be encouraged to get hands-on with baking and messy play when it holds an open day this weekend.

Kiddi Caru, in Kiln Lane, will open its doors on Saturday to give parents and guardians the opportunity to experience some of the activities it offers, including gardening, arts, craft and games.

In addition, all those who attend will be treated to a meal of sweet potato and chickpea curry followed by lemon muffins, all prepared by the nursery's cook.

School attendance figures at highest for a decade

LATEST attendance figures for Essex schools show they are at their highest level for more than a decade.

Statistics published by the Department for Education show the percentage of classes missed in the county's state-funded primary, secondary and special schools fell to 4.4 per cent in the 2014/15, a figure which is higher than both the east of England and national average.

Essex County Council said the continued improvement is a result of work carried out by its Missing Education and Child Employment Service in conjunction with schools.

Cllr Ray Gooding, cabinet member for education and lifelong learning, said: "There are clear links between attendance and attainment and we are committed to ensuring all pupils achieve their full potential.

"We work very closely with schools and I am pleased they have achieved the highest rates of school attendance for more than a decade.

Issues

"Where a pupil is failing to attend school on a regular basis, schools work with families to try to resolve any issues that may be preventing attendance.

"If problems are not resolved, schools may make a referral to the Missing Education and Child Employment Service, which is responsible for enforcement processes."

He added: "Every lesson counts and we will continue to take the action needed to protect the education of the county's pupils."

Academy's progress praised

A HARLOW secondary school has been given a pat on the back by the Department for Education following an inspection.

Staff and students at Mark Hall Academy, in First Avenue, were praised for their efforts in raising the school's performance since it became part of the Academy Transformation Trust.

A representative of the Regional Schools Commission, who visited the school last month, reported GCSE results had improved since the school joined ATT and commented positively on pupils' record of attendance, behaviour and desire to learn.

They noted that while Mark

Hall was one of the most improved schools in Essex since becoming an ATT academy, it still had further work to do.

Principal Corinne Franceschi said: "I am pleased that the DfE has recognised our progress to date along with our ambitious plans for improvement.

"We are not yet where we want to be but we are improving steadily and we have a clear plan in place to achieve our goals."

She added: "I would like to thank the trust for their ongoing support and thank staff and pupils for their continued hard work and for representing the academy in such a positive way."

Moves for the mind

BALLET is no swan song for a group of pensioners who are finding a new lease of life through dance.

Silver Swans Ballet has proved a revelation with the retired since the company established groups in Sawbridgeworth and Bishop's Stortford.

Principal Carrie Johnson is hoping for a similar response when the school's newest class begins in Harlow later this month.

"Ballet for the retired is great for poise, flexibility and posture," said the 48-year-old instructor, who lives in Brent Pelham.

"It helps prevent the stoop older people develop when they do not use back muscles in the same way.

"Studies have shown that this regular gentle exercise is great in keeping the elderly mobile. There are also claims that exercise like ballet can also help to warn off dementia.

"The ladies that come to the class are all noticing that they are able to move more freely and the companionship of the group has given them a new lease of life."

Carrie has been a ballet instructor for many years, but said she has found the classes as positive as her pupils clearly have.

Numbers have grown week on week in the two months they have been established in Sawbridgeworth and Bishop's Stortford - with a current core group of 15 for each class.

After a long search to find a suitable venue in Harlow town centre proved fruitless Silver Swans will take off in the Women's Institute Hall in Garden Terrace Road, Old Harlow on Tuesday, April 26.

The classes will then meet every Tuesday from 1.30-2.30pm.

While youngsters often feel pressured into hard training in ballet, Carrie said the secret to their success is adapting the classes to all abilities and making sure all have fun.

"I have been involved in ballet for a long time and I know it is about getting them to do some exercises in an environment that is not intimidating," she said.

"We will get three or four participants who have done ballet before, and that is immediately obvious, but we also get people who have never done it in their lives.

"We are going to meet in the WI Hall in Old Harlow, it is a venue that is about the right size.

"I am the principal of the school and I have got two teachers. For Harlow I would like to build a community where people can learn something and make new friends.

"We are hoping to expand to Broxbourne and Ware."

She added: "We always finish our session with tea, coffee and biscuits. This is not just about the exercise.

"The social side really brings the group together afterwards. It is a nice way to get them talking."

Despite the range of ages and abilities Carrie said the group is able to accommodate anyone - and that includes men.

"We have not had one man come yet," she laughed.

"We said it's open to everyone and it would be nice to have a male ballet dancer.

"I would say it is for the retired. If they can move then they can come, there is no restriction as someone of 84 has been coming every week. They have all been really enjoying it."

Silver Swans Ballet will begin at the Women's Institute Hall on Tuesday, April 26. Classes will run on Tuesdays every week from 1.30-2.30pm. Each lesson costs £6. For more information, call Carrie on 07505 708528.

Musical 40th birthday celebrations for chorus

HARLOW Chorus is celebrating its 40th birthday with a performance of an Afro-Latin music at Chelmsford Cathedral.

Composer David Fanshawe's African Sanctus will beat its heart at the concert at 7pm on Saturday.

The piece fuses different peoples and their music into a Latin Mass, one moment pulsating with rhythmic energy, the next creating passages of lyrical beauty.

Exit Pursued by a Hippopotamus! is not a stage direction, but a moment in the life of composer Fanshawe, who inadvertently hit a hippo on the head with a canoe paddle during his journeys across Arabia and Africa collecting music for African Sanctus.

Fortunately, he survived, but the tape recorder drowned. Other moments included a crash-landing in the bush and being thrown into prison, minus his shoes, for recording the Royal Drums of the Sukumu Kings.

Those drums and much more will feature – tribal dances, croaking frogs, a rain song, cattle songs – in the fabulous sound world Fanshawe created.

Children from Henry Moore Primary School in Harlow joining the chorus to sing Fanshawe's lovely setting of The Lord's Prayer.

Soprano Emily Yarrow, Harlow Chorus Training Choir, percussionists Graham Instrall and Tim Gunnell and pianist Susan Graham Smith complete the line-up. Alexander Chaplin will command all these forces as conductor.

Harlow Chorus' choral birthday party starts at 7pm and tickets can be bought at www.ticketsource.co.uk/harlowchorus or on the door: £18, £16, £14 with £5 for under-18s. There are seats on the audience coach, picking up in Old Harlow, Sawbridgeworth and Stortford – email gill.chester@virgin.net.

The return of Fury

THANKS to the music of his band and some neat video work, Billy Fury is back. More than 30 years after his death the hits of 1960s rock 'n' roll superstar are still being enjoyed by huge, and wild, audiences.

Billy's guitarist Chris Raynor reformed the backing band Fury's Tornados with old members in 1997 with new vocalist Colin Gold taking the mic.

Under the name The Billy Fury Story – Halfway to Paradise – the five-piece will rock Harlow Playhouse on Saturday, May 28.

And thanks to technology, they will be joined by a special guest.

"The show has evolved every single year," said Chris.

"This year one of our sound technicians said to me 'do you want to play with Billy Fury again?' and I said that we couldn't because he had died.

"But they have taken a dry vocal and matched it up with a video to bring him back. We just do it for one of the numbers. The audiences have been standing up and stamping their feet for it. It is unbelievable. I am getting goosebumps."

Billy's untimely death at the age of 42 in 1983, which was brought on by rheumatic fever, marked a sad end to what had been a glittering career.

Throughout a 1960s hot streak the prolific Fury, who was born Ronald William Wycherley, chalked up 24 top 40 hits – a tally that matched The Beatles.

Chris added: "In the '60s, there was a lot of great music out there, but Billy was a rival to The Beatles and he had more hit records than The Rolling Stones. Back then, everyone was trying to be an Elvis impersonator. It was an era when rock 'n' roll was coming to an end.

"Billy started with rock 'n' roll, but he changed his style a lot with the times and he began to do some ballads too.

"He is very understated. The difference with him, compared to Elvis and The Beatles, was that they had lots of movies made about them. Billy only released in England and did not go into America, which I think you had to do to have a movie. But here he was so well loved.

"I was there in the 1970s. Billy had to finish touring in 1976 when he had his second heart operation. He then returned for a final tour shortly before he died, but by that stage we were worried for his health and tried to stop him."

If it wasn't for the omnipresence of The Beatles, Fury might have enjoyed greater status, but Chris said fans would go equally wild for their hero.

"The stage used to get mobbed," he said.

Chris is joined by band members Charlie Elston on keyboards, John Raynor (no relation) on drums and Graham Wylvill on bass. The guys were playing together in the late 1990s, but the decision to perform Billy's songs wasn't one they made straight away.

"We all went our separate ways after Billy died," said Chris.

"It was 20 years after that we started playing together, we did our first show together in 1997 as the old band and we did some of his songs.

"My wife kept saying to me we needed to do more of his songs, as people loved them. After two or three months, we did a show just dedicated to Billy Fury. That was the start of it all.

"We now do two small tours a year, in spring and autumn. We only intended to do one tour, but it just went on and on."

The task of finding a replacement for Billy's vocal was daunting, but it did not take them too long to find a perfect voice to fit the songs. Chris said new singer Colin Gold was found in an unlikely way.

"Colin has got a fabulous voice. There are not many singers that don't go out of tune for any syllables, he has got a voiced blessed by heaven.

"It was meant to be. Nobody had impersonated Billy before. We were going to audition for someone, but we saw Colin on the TV show Stars in Their Eyes and we got him to meet us in Nottingham (where the other four are based).

"It just fitted like a glove."

Halfway to Paradise will also be enhanced by the presence of Billy's partner Lisa Voice, who will introduce the band on stage.

■ The Billy Fury Story – Halfway to Paradise will be performed at Harlow Playhouse on Saturday, May 28. Tickets start from £20.50 and can be bought from www.playhouseharlow.com.

No music fest, but get your tickets for the Bishbash bash!

STORTFORD Music Festival (SMF) is not happening this year, but the team behind it have organised a mini event this summer.

The BishBash will take place on Sworder's Field on July 16 and it promises to capture the fun of the festival in a pint-sized portion.

Organisers have said that full details of acts, attractions and timings will be released soon for the event that comes as part of a set running through the year under the SMF banner.

Bootleg Blondie, an energetic and striking tribute act to Blondie, played at SMF 2014 and will return to the town for a gig at Rhodes arts centre at 8pm on Friday, May 20.

They will be supported by punk tribute band The Err... Yeahs!, who played the bar stage at last year's festival.

SMF has also teamed up with the Acoustic Club at the Half Moon pub in North Street to bring folk band The Willows back to town after festival appearances. They play at the pub on June 16.

Enthusiastic ballet youngsters bringing hope for the future

IN the world of ballet, style and atmosphere are just as important as the dancing itself and Harlow Ballet presented a skilful combination of all three in this spectacular production of Coppélia.

At curtain-up, as villagers mingled in anticipation of a grand pageant, and in the finale as they took part in the event, the stage was packed with dancers creating a magnificent blend of colour and movement, performed to Léo Delibes magnificent score.

In between, the audience was treated to some accomplished solo performances, pas de deux and corps work from the company's rising young stars.

Coppélia (or The Girl with Enamel Eyes), is the world's most widely performed comedy ballet and its story is typical fairytale whimsy. Villagers Swanhilda and Franz are sweethearts but she thinks he has fallen for Coppélia, a strange girl who sits in the window of the house owned by doll-maker Dr Coppélius. Swanhilda and her friends manage to enter the house and discover Coppélia is actually a doll.

To tease the old man, Swanhilda pretends to be Coppélia, only to realise that he has drugged her sweetheart and is trying to bring the doll to life using Franz' life force. Swanhilda saves the youth and, having made amends with Coppélius, the two are married and live happily ever after.

The intricate and varied role of Swanhilda was shared between Nadia Jones and Jodie Sangster-Dean. The Friday performance saw Jodie deliver an assured and mature performance, tackling the characterisation of both girl and doll with aplomb.

Franz was danced by guest artist Matthew Morrell, a student at Ballet Central in London, whose lithe and athletic style brought grace and fluidity to the role, while Harlow Ballet stalwart Stefan Donovan, with his talent for mime, gave Dr Coppélius warmth and humanity.

Among the many talented young dancers, special mention must go to Millie Ashdown and Grace Lilly who, as both friends of Swanhilda and the Dawn and Prayer characterisations, performed with exceptional style and flair.

Directed by Michael Branwell and with glorious costumes by Henrietta Branwell, this was a thoroughly enjoyable production. And with its large and enthusiastic cast of young dancers, one that bodes well for the future of Harlow Ballet.

Hop hop kids' royal display

S CORES of youngsters took part in a two-day course run by performing arts school Hip Hop Pop. Some 75 young people aged 6-15 from Harlow and the surrounding area attended the course at Passmore Academy.

Students were taught various street styles such as hip hop, house and locking including a huge number of moves.

The young people were led by Hip Hop Pop's team of five tutors and three assistants, who delivered the course.

Throughout the course the students also worked on a street dance performance to mark the Queen's 90th birthday celebrations, which will be performed on April 21.

One youngster took on the role of Her Majesty and the other students wore tees with the Hip Hop Pop logo topped with a royal crown in gold.

The performance featured songs including Where's the Party At by Jagged Edge, It's My Birthday by will i am, Happy Birthday by Stevie Wonder and Queen of the Night by Whitney Houston.

Tutor Jenny Bater-Sinclair, who is one of the top five per cent of qualified street dancers in the country, said: "Our Easter course was extremely popular, we had a huge waiting list to join."

"This is certainly a compliment to the quality of activity that we provide, and that's thanks to a great team here at Hip Hop Pop."

"The students have tremendous fun, you can see it in their dancing and drive to learn as well as the smiles on their faces."

"I'm so proud of what they have learned in the two days, and we can't wait for our three day summer course."

Michelle Pyle, mother of 10-year-old student Heidi Pyle from Harlow, said via Hip Hop Pop's Facebook page: "Well done to all of you for another great show. Heidi has had an amazing time and can't wait for the summer course."

"The hard work you all put in is astounding and you are great role models for our children."

"How you got that many kids with those age ranges to produce that in two days is beyond me and I think that school teachers could learn a lot from you about getting the best out of children."

THE BIG FILM

A life in the public eye

Dame Helen Mirren swaps fancy frocks for fatigues when she leads the cast in gripping thriller The Eye In The Sky. The celebrated actress tells Keeley Bolger about working on a film about modern warfare, ignoring gossip and why she has grown to have greater appreciation for awards

The wider debate over the value of awards in Hollywood shows no sign of abating, with an ongoing discussion over the lack of diversity. But on a personal level, Dame Helen Mirren can see the merit in gaining industry recognition through the plaudits, though she didn't always feel this way.

"When I first came into my profession, I was very, very against the idea of recognition, in the sense of the star system and all the rest of it," explains the 70-year-old with a smile.

"I liked the feeling of ensemble and a sense of anonymity – not personal anonymity, but the sense that it was a collaborative [effort] and no one person was more important than another, but now I feel slightly differently."

Since starting her career as a teenager at the National Youth Theatre, Mirren has become one of the most recognisable faces on British screens, tackling TV with her standout role in long-running series Prime Suspect, action movies in Red and comedy in Calendar Girls – and picking up a hefty swag of awards along the way.

Having played the monarch with her acclaimed title role in The Queen – winning an Oscar for her performance in the process – she's not afraid to poke fun at her regal image (and much celebrated sense of humour), recently filming an anti drink-driving advert for Budweiser, calling anyone who does so a "pillock".

In person, Mirren doesn't disappoint.

Elegant in a purple dress, teapot to her side (though her brew is the resolutely un-starry PG Tips), she is warm, funny and personable from the off.

After five decades at the top of her game, Mirren knows her own worth, which if Madame Tussauds' three commemorative wax figures to celebrate her 70th birthday is anything to go by, is vast.

"I got to a point where I realised the way in which my profession was structured, and recognition was a very important part of it," she says. "And if I really wanted to continue working throughout my whole life, and be financially secure, I had to make myself a recognisable thing, if you know what I mean."

Success, however, can mean falling prey to titlle-tattle.

It's a topic Mirren is familiar with, having recently played vicious career-destroying gossip columnist Hedda Hopper in Trumbo (and scoring a Golden Globe nomination for her performance).

As a prominent star, she's presumably exposed to it herself.

But, Mirren points out, she can turn a blind eye to babble. For screenwriter Dalton Trumbo, the subject of the movie, vicious gossip led to him being blacklisted.

"There are Heddass out there and ironically, they're so often women. They're occasionally men, but there's a particular kind of woman in journalism who takes delight in being more brutal and more cruel and more attacking than anyone," says the actress.

"I haven't personally had to deal with that, or if I have, I've ignored it. But I don't live in the world or the era of Hedda Hopper or Dalton Trumbo, and you see very clearly the price that Dalton had to pay."

Next up, Mirren is side-stepping the drama of Trumbo to star as military intelligence officer Colonel Katherine Powell in thriller The Eye In The Sky, a role which producer Ged Doherty had no doubt she would excel at, given she "can play a badass".

In the film, which also stars the late Alan Rickman and Breaking Bad's Aaron Paul, Katherine is remotely commanding a top secret drone operation to capture a group of dangerous terrorists from their safe-house in Nairobi, Kenya.

The situation escalates when a nine-year-old girl enters the 'kill zone', just as American drone pilot Steve Watts (Paul) is poised to destroy the house.

The idea of a woman being in control of such an operation intrigued Mirren.

"To be a successful woman in the military means you have got to be very focused," explains the actress, who shot the film in South Africa.

"Not for one nanosecond are you allowed to mess up, and she has been like that for her whole life, the type of girl who wants to join the military."

"What you wear is very much a part of that. You're eschewing a certain feminine world," she adds. "You're going to be in uniform, and it's not a uniform that is particularly flattering to the female shape, so you let go of all of that."

Although Mirren didn't know much about drone warfare before shooting, and quips that she'd be a "disaster in the military", she had an entry point into the fear they invoke, through her parents' stories of 'doodlebugs' flying overhead during the Blitz.

Asked whether playing strong, single-minded woman comes naturally to her, she hesitates.

"I don't know that it necessarily comes easy to me. What I always try to do with the roles that I play is to humanise them."

"To be human is to be full of conflict about things; it's not to be sure. Even the people who appear to be absolutely confident go home at night and go, 'Am I right?'"

"My job as an actor is to show human vulnerabilities."

"Insecurity and vulnerability are much more interesting."

Savvy mum made obscene amount of money selling husband's old stuff!

Mum of three secretly sold all of her husband's stuff that he had been hoarding from before they were even married, cleaned out the loft and garage. When she broke the news to him, he was slightly upset, but he soon cheered up when she told him she had used the money to book a belated honeymoon they had been promising each other.

Conservatories

Turn your conservatory into an all year round living space

Our replacement roof solution is a traditional roof construction method for your conservatory which replaces the existing glass/acrylic roof with a bespoke insulated, timber framed, tiled roof.

This helps ensure a more comfortable room temperature in Summer whilst still enjoying the warmth a conservatory brings, and increases the temperature in Winter, enabling an enjoyable environment all year round. The new roof will also reduce glare and noise.

A Summit Conservatory Roof encourages your conservatory to become a popular area of the home, as an additional room and relaxing living space, saving you money on energy bills... and no more cleaning that glass or acrylic!

Cook can see England potential in the ranks

Test captain hopes Eagles youngsters follow in his path

by Oliver Harbord

star-sport@hertssexnews.co.uk

ENGLAND Test captain Alastair Cook believes some of his county team-mates could one day follow him and play for their country.

Batsmen Nick Browne and Tom Westley have been hotly tipped to make an appearance for England in the not-too-distant future, while bowler Jamie Porter was part of the Potential England Performance Programme over the winter.

And Cook, who will play four Specsavers County Championship matches at the start of the 2016 season for Essex, believes some of the players have the talent to make the next step.

The 31-year-old said: "Potentially there are people in that squad that could play for England."

"From a Nick Browne or Tom Westley, who are a little bit further along in their careers, or a couple of younger guys like Porter and Aaron Beard, who I have been very impressed with."

Work ethic

"The standard of these young guys and their work ethic I have been very impressed with."

"Potential gets you a certain amount of the way but they have to learn quickly and adapt to playing first-class cricket. I would put Dan Lawrence in that category as well."

"Due to my experience I can pass on little snippets of what I see in his [Lawrence's] game or what I think he can work on."

"But hopefully he can watch how I go about my business and what I do with my cricket. He might take a little bit from that."

"He is a very talented player and another one from the production line of Essex, who should be very proud of what they've produced."

With the experience and skill that Cook possesses, Essex will be looking to make a decent start to their first-class campaign.

But the England captain, who scored a century in the first innings of the opening Specsavers County Championship match of the season at home to Gloucestershire, believes that the addition of new players was key if the Eagles are to have success this season.

"It is not the be-all and end-all to get promotion for the guys, but it was important to strengthen the bowling attack so you don't have to play the same four seamers week in, week out," he added.

"You need to have a rotation policy and that will allow us to be a bit more consistent throughout the season."

"There has been a real change with the staff and a new group of players so it really does feel like the start of a different era."

"The thing is everyone is excited and every county will think they have a chance to have a good year, but there are encouraging signs."

"Essex is all about delivering to their potential. In any elite sport you do need freshening up at certain times, and it was a fairly obvious thing, after seven or eight years, it was time for a change."

"Some brave decisions have been made and it is exciting times."

"We have been the nearly men for the last four or five years, got close in several tournaments without taking the final hurdle."

"It will be really interesting to see how the guys step up to the challenge."

New skipper's relishing his Mr Motivator role at Essex CCC

RYAN TEN DOESCHATE says he is loving the challenge of being Essex's new club skipper for the 2016 season.

The 35-year-old all-rounder has taken on the four-day captaincy mantle from James Foster with the aim of leading the Eagles to Specsavers County Championship Division Two promotion.

But Ten Doeschate feels the hardest bit of his new job has been off the field, rather than on it. "More of the work has been away from the cricket in this role," he said. "Preparing the guys before the season has been fun and everyone has really thrown themselves into the work that we have prescribed for them."

"We were all ready to go and we have just been keen to put everything into practice."

"The dynamic of being club captain has definitely been about things off the field as much as on the pitch."

"You have to motivate the players and put structures together, talking to the coaches and basically doing everything possible so that when the guys go out there they are the best cricketers they can be."

"I have really enjoyed it, everyone has responded really well and I feel that we are in great shape."

"But now it is about putting that into practice and delivering the goods on the pitch."

Off the field is certainly where Essex have been busiest, with three new signings and the addition of Wahab Riaz and Adam Milne for the NatWest T20 Blast.

But Ten Doeschate has been most impressed by the introduction of new assistant head coach

NEW ERA: Essex captain Ryan Ten Doeschate

Anthony McGrath.

The Yorkshireman comes to the county with a wealth of experience and the club captain has been delighted with his approach as batting coach.

"He [McGrath] has been an absolute hit, he has been the wonder signing," the skipper added. "So far everyone has really liked what he does and he is a fantastic human being."

"He has been great around the group with a great work ethic and has brought a lot of practical things into our batting, in terms of targets and things like that."

"Hopefully we can reap rewards of having him around."

Ten Doeschate takes over the four-day captaincy in a new era for the English game with a new coin toss rule and only one team being promoted this season.

But he insists that he will not be a distraction on their quest for promotion.

"I think it is easy to get carried away with the idea of the coin toss," he said. "One of the reasons they have done that is to get better pitches, so it is not always going to be a case of bowling first every time."

"We might go down to Hove [Sussex's home ground] and it might be a good deck and we want to bat first."

"It is something we will have to get our heads around, but if you are smart then you can use that to an advantage."

"One team going up will make it very tough and it doesn't allow for any slip-ups. We have to start well but it is the same challenge for every team."

shooting boots'. It could have been 10-2.

"It was one of those days. We conceded two sloppy goals but we showed character to come back."

Thurrock beat Bury Town to move back into second on goal difference, just two goals better off, with two games left.

Harlow want second to secure home ties in the play-off semi and final should they get that far.

AFC Sudbury wrapped up the title with a win at Tilbury.

Against Phoenix, the first half finished goalless after Sonko forced a fantastic save from the home keeper, while other chances were missed.

Three minutes after the break, Jared Small's cross was met by Alex Read who side-footed home to give the visitors the lead.

Billy Bennett made it 1-1 on 53 minutes when he volleyed in.

Jared Small's shot hit a post and Craig Pope was superbly denied by the Phoenix keeper.

Harlow were made to pay for their profligacy when Bennett scored a second, turning well and firing in a shot to put the hosts in front on 84 minutes.

But Sonko had the last word as he rose above the home defence to nod home.

Harlow need one more win to secure at least third place in the final Ryman North table.

Star Sport looks back to 1966 and the World Cup when two of the top teams were based here

Eusebio loved breakfast at Saxon Inn

PORTUGAL eventually won over the Wembley crowd in 1966, and they were also favourites in Harlow where they stayed for part of the tournament.

Their star player, Eusebio, clearly enjoyed staying at the Saxon Inn Hotel in Southern Way, and was pictured in national newspapers being served breakfast in bed as he prepared for a match.

The 1965 European Player of the Year netted nine goals and was top scorer in the World Cup, but his side were beaten in the semi-final by eventual winners England.

Despite picking up a 3-1 win over Hungary and a 3-0 victory over Bulgaria in their first two group matches, they were savaged for their treatment of the world's greatest player, Pele.

They defeated the Selecao 3-1 with Eusebio netting twice.

Brazil, the pre-tournament favourites, were kicked from pillar to post and exited the competition with Pele unable to continue due to injury.

This was followed by an astonishing quarter-final against North Korea.

Surprises

The Asian side were actually leading at half-time, but Portugal eventually won 5-3 in extra-time with Eusebio scoring four goals.

Speaking at the Saxon Inn ahead of the third place play-off, Eusebio said at the time on his chances of being top scorer and winning the £1000 prize put up by a London casino: "Football is full of surprises. Another player could catch me. One or two goals against Russia will clinch it. For me, however the satisfaction will be if Portugal win – and win well – and, above all, if we can satisfy that wonderful Wembley crowd with some more good football."

Eusebio scored from the spot in the third-place play-off, enough to secure a 2-1 victory against the USSR.

But surely the best memory for some lucky Harlow schoolchildren was him teaching them how to curl corners into the net at Harlow Sportcentre in the summer of '66?

■ INFORMATION and comments from these articles has been sourced from a new book which has been published and written by Harlow-trained journalist Ian Passingham, the deputy night sports editor at The Sun.

Taking a look at the tournament in real time – as if it happened today – it's a fascinating look at the competition from a very different angle.

Starting with England's build-up to the big event, it takes readers through a journey of the World Cup as it happened, with stories from when Pickles the dog discovered the 'lost' Jules Rimet Trophy, to results and reports from the group stages through to the finale at Wembley, with lots of quirky and interesting stories in between, including tales of the Uruguay players' exploits in Harlow.

A time when Harlow welcomed world stars

50 years since Uruguay and Portugal came to town

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

IMAGINE if Cristiano Ronaldo or Lionel Messi stayed in Harlow if the World Cup returned to these shores once again.

That might sound scarcely believable but some of the top stars of the game did that in 1966 when England won the Jules Rimet Trophy on home soil.

With this year being the 50th anniversary of that barmy summer, the Star looks back at that astonishing time when players from two of the favourites to win the competition, Portugal and 1950 winners Uruguay, stayed at the Saxon Inn Hotel in Southern Way, now called the Park Inn.

Portugal's global star Eusebio – arguably the player of that tournament and still regarded as one of the world's greatest ever footballers – spent time curling corners into the net at the old Harlow Sportcentre stadium in front of hundreds of Harlow schoolchildren.

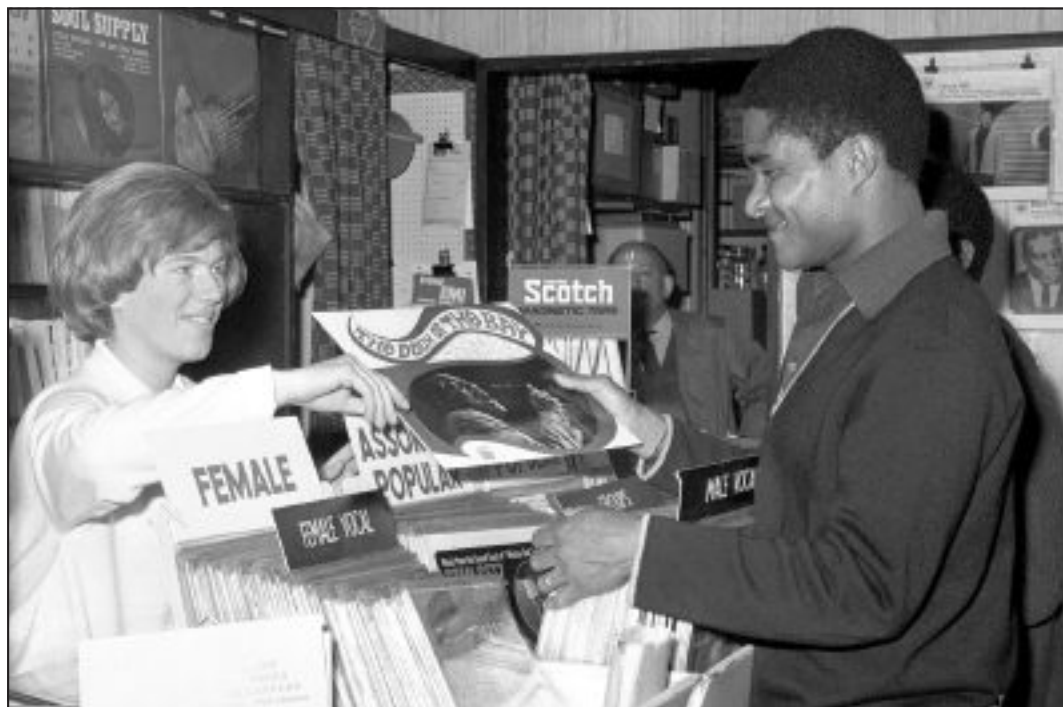

Toughest

He popped into the odd record shop in the town and was always happy to sign an autograph or two.

It seems incredible to believe. The Uruguay team were in England's group and were expected to be the toughest rivals for the Three Lions – and so it proved.

The South Americans arrived in the new town on July 1. It was the players' first visit to Harlow.

A report from the Epping and Ongar Gazette wrote: "During the time they are at the Saxon Inn privacy will be the main objective of the players, who will have arduous training ahead of them."

But they broke their rule just a week later – when they made a public appearance in Harlow.

They appeared on stage at the now closed down Odeon Cinema in West Gate during the children's Saturday Club performance.

The Gazette continued: "They have agreed to make an exception because they have been so delighted with the way the town's youngsters have feted them."

A few days' later the footballers and their entourage were invited guests to a special reception held in their honour at the Harlow Town Hall, then based near the police station in South Gate.

The following day they were guests of Harlow Police.

They played a friendly match against Harlow Town at the club's old Sportcentre ground in Hammaraskjold Road, then a new complex having been built in 1960. It is now a housing estate.

But their training plans were thrown into disarray on one occasion when they turned up at Harlow Sportcentre to find a Scouts sports event in progress.

The squad headed back to the Saxon Inn and worked out in a nearby field there instead.

Uruguay, with goalkeeper Ladislao Mazurkiewicz proving a key man, were not seen in public after that as they maintained a strict training regime ahead of their opening match against hosts England, a lacklustre 0-0 draw in front of the Queen.

As they left the Saxon Inn they were presented with a Teddy bear decked out with ribbons in their national colours from Harlow well-wishers, such was the high regard they were held in by the local public.

They then took on France at the old White City Stadium in West London, which ended in a 2-1 win for the South Americans courtesy of goals from Pedro Rocha and Julio Cesar Cortes.

They went on to draw 0-0 with Mexico.

Uruguay stayed in Harlow much longer than Portugal, so it was unsurprising that they were taken to the hearts of the town-folk, much the same way that the North Koreans, the tournament's shock team reaching the quarter-finals, were incredibly popular in Middlesbrough, where they stayed.

They played matches at Ayresome Park, including the huge upset against mighty Italy, when they won 1-0.

The Wembley crowd clearly did not take to Uruguay like the people of Harlow as they were booed off for their deliberate attempts to kill off the match as a spectacle and secure the point they required to progress to the quarter-finals.

They were knocked out in the last eight by eventual finalists West Germany, losing 4-0.

Solomon's high hopes after marching fourth in UK rankings

HAVING moved to fourth in the UK U20 men's rankings, 400m runner Canaan Solomon has high hopes for 2016.

The Harlow College student, the current South of England U20 men's 800m champion, launched his outdoor track season with an excellent victory in the open age group over 400m at Lee Valley Athletic Centre in North London last Saturday.

Drawn in the outside lane and in blustery conditions, Solomon (pictured right) ran an impressive 48.52sec to knock 1.5 seconds off his previous best.

"Canaan's aim this year is to firstly achieve the qualifying time over 800 metres for the World Juniors of 1min 48.5sec and then to place in the top two over 800m in the AAAs in June at Bedford," said John Stow, a coach at Woodford Green with Essex Ladies, Solomon's club.

Maxwell Chinn, 10, a Church Langley student, set an U11 record at the Hatfield parkrun 5K with a time of 20min 08sec.

Three days later he took nine seconds off his 1500m PB when finishing second in a mixed race at Watford last Wednesday.

Allesandro Berni, 10, a St Albans School student, also had a fine run in the same race to place seventh in 5:27.05.

In another mixed 1500m race, Hayden and Todd Maleary, 14-year-old twins both from Burnt Mill Academy, finished joint first place in 4:59.

Not far behind was Kai Boggan, 13, a Passmore's Academy student, who also secured a PB with a time of 5:03 for fourth spot.

Rams cook up a cup final feast over Baker

Harlow hope to emulate 1995 Eastern Counties win

Essex County Cup, semi-final
May & Baker 15
Harlow 10

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

A SEASON of hope and the prospect of promotion might have ended with a tinge of disappointment at an anticipated fourth place finish in the league table for the Rams.

But Lee Harron's Harlow side can secure their place in club history in the Essex County Cup final.

They last won a trophy in 1995 when they secured the silverware in the Eastern Counties Cup.

They were set to take on London Division Two North East side Romford & Gidea Park in the final under floodlights at Thurrock Rugby Club last night (Wednesday).

The Rams sealed their spot with a tremendous semi-final victory at London Division Three North East rivals May & Baker last weekend.

Harlow had worked hard during the week to put things right from the previous performance, a 28-0 loss at Wanstead in the league, and there was clearly a marked improvement in these areas.

For the first 20 minutes Harlow played all the right rugby - but all in the wrong areas.

Meanwhile, the hosts pinned Harlow back with every opportunity and opened the scoring with an unconverted try.

May & Baker were choosing to kick the ball away at every opportunity but this tactic paid dividends with a terrible bounce that wrong-footed Harlow full-back Rob Mackie as it deflected off for an uncontested try.

Again the conversion was missed.

Stung, the Rams put together a fantastic move to halve the deficit.

Quick ball from the breakdown released Dale Stalley who evaded three defenders and out-paced the defence to score an exceptional try.

The conversion was missed.

This sparked Harlow into life and the visitors started to make in-roads into the May & Baker defence.

Successful

Some excellent interplay and off-loading between backs and forwards allowed Charlie Woodington to finish off a well-worked try. The first successful conversion of the match from Rams fly-half Danny Smith made it 12-10 to Harlow.

Harlow had the edge for much of the second half but on three occasions foiled possible try-scoring moves with silly errors like spilling the ball right on the May & Baker try line.

Harlow continued to pressurise May & Baker who gave away a series of penalties but again the visitors failed to take advantage of this.

Late on the hosts gave a penalty away within kickable range that was confidently slotted over by Smith.

Needing a converted try to win, May & Baker threw everything at Harlow who defended resolutely to book a place in the final.

Captain Shaun Roberts said: "It has been a long time since Harlow has been in a final and now we have the opportunity to win something.

"It's great for the club and with the move on the horizon it shows the progress we are making.

"They [May & Baker] are a tough side to beat. They never give up."

Harlow play their final league game this Saturday at home to struggling Upminster when they should wrap up fourth spot.

HARLOW: Christy, Bowering, Fitzgerald, Palmer, Evans, Roberts, J. Clark, Robertson, Woodington, Smith, McGlone, R. Stalley, S. Stalley, D. Stalley, Mackie. Subs: Ephgrave, Stevenson, Phillips, Claridge, Brown.

■ HARLOW'S U14 team triumphed in the B Shield final at the Colchester Festival last weekend.

The Young Rams picked up wins against Felixstowe, Colchester B, Ely and Brightlingsea before a defeat to Dartford in the A Shield final.

This put Harlow through to the B Shield final but the scheduled opponents withdrew, giving the Ram Gorse side victory by default.

Premier Cup triumph ignites quintet dream for Rouge

HDFL Don Watters Premier Division Cup final

Rouge Return 6
Maiden 2

PETER LUCIA was delighted with his Rouge Return side after they completed the first part of what could be a magnificent quintet of trophies this season.

The Paringdon Sports Club-based side are already into the Essex Sunday Premier Cup final, and hope to be the first Harlow team to win this prestigious trophy since 1995.

They are six points away from lifting the Harlow & District Football League Premier Division title.

JOY OF SIX: Rouge Return with the silverware

They are also hoping to win the League Cup and the Senior Champions League trophy. Rouge were 2-1 down at halftime to arch-rivals Maiden in the Premier Division Cup before launching an astonishing second-half fightback.

"It was our first silverware this season," beamed joint boss Lucia. "We also play Maiden in the Senior Champions League final on April 24."

In the Premier Division final at Bishop's Stortford FC, Rouge opened the scoring after five minutes when James Thomas rifled a shot past Maiden keeper Adam Dalby.

Maiden soon levelled when experienced goal-getter Gavin Cockman latched on to a through ball and lobbed Rouge keeper Dean Aken.

Maiden went in front when Anton Collins fired home to give them a 2-1 half-time lead.

Rouge upped the tempo after the break and equalised through an own goal on 55 minute when Ryan Jackson headed past his own keeper.

Rouge went ahead just past the hour when James Thomas stabbed in from virtually on the goal-line on 75 minutes.

Scott Poole's fantastic pass set up Arron Thomas for 5-2, before sub Ben Davis rounded the keeper and tapped home for 6-2.

TOP OF THE CLASS:
Members of Harlow
Gymnastics Club

Young Harlow gymnasts are the cream of the county

FOURTEEN-year-old Charlotte Brough took pride of place among Harlow Gymnastics Club at the Essex regional grade competition in Colchester.

St Mark's student Charlotte was awarded the overall silver medal and was commended in the grade three (age 13+) competition after winning the beam, finishing second on both floor and in range and conditioning (R&C) and third on both vault and bars.

Charlotte will represent Essex in the East Region competition.

All 33 club gymnasts passed their respective grades in the county event, competing against more than 250 rivals from across Essex.

There was an outstanding performance in the grade four age 11/12 event from Brodie Keown, 10. Brodie earned a distinction and was fourth overall after winning the beam, taking second on floor and third on vault.

Olivia Collier was commended and fifth overall in the grade two age 14+ event after finishing third on floor.

TOP DARTS: John Crowley, 81, struck a 180 in his match for Paringdon Royals

81-year-old John hits 180

AGE is certainly no barrier to 81-year-old darts player John Crowley – he hit a maximum 180 in a match for his team on Friday.

The pensioner, who has been playing in the Harlow & District Premier Darts League for the last ten years, hit the three wonder darts in a match for his side Paringdon Royals at Paringdon Sports Club.

But Crowley, of Copse Hill in Harlow, who plays darts with his wife Sheila, daughter Lyn and son-in-law Mick Addison, could not lead his side to victory.

They lost 6-2 in their match with The Bulleseyes.

League secretary Graham Tanner said: "All of a sudden he hit a 180 right out of the blue."

WAKE UP HAWKS!

Boss wants to go out with bang in final home game

HAWKS boss Danny Chapman wants to go out on a high with victory in the final home game of the league season ahead of the play-offs this Saturday.

Harlow Town might need to win both their games, including the last match at champions AFC Sudbury, and turn around a two-goal swing in those matches to seal second spot.

As it stands Harlow are likely to host Cray Wanderers in the play-off semi-final a week on Wednesday (April 27).

The Hawks host Great Wakering Rovers this Saturday and Chapman says victory is vital to make sure his side finish in the top three. "We want home advantage [in the play-off]. We want to finish in the top three. Our focus this weekend is getting the three points against Woking and ensuring third spot."

Winger Junior Dadson (right) is set to return for this game after a shin injury. Thurrock host Harlow's neighbours Waltham Abbey – who need a win to keep alive their hopes of beating the drop – it is not cut and dried that Harlow will finish outside the top two.
